Our purpose:

The purpose of the Conference is to attend to the civic needs of the community; work toward an attractive, secure, diverse and caring community, and to promote participation of residents, businesses, institutions and organizations in programs and activities that advance the interests and concerns of the community. It serves the community as a watchdog, independent voice and clearing house in the community's ongoing conversation and decisions about those matters which affect and define community life.

Growing programs that serve the community

The Hyde Park Garden Fair and the Hyde Park Used Book Sale are committees of the conference that beautify our neighborhood and lives and bring people together to create community and bring in visitors to Hyde Park. They also help underwrite our programs.

The Conference serves as fiscal and promoting agency for good-fit small organizations and programs including Chicago Academic Games, Friends of Blackstone Library, Nichols Park Advisory Council, and Southside Preservation Action Fund. See list of programs below.

Informing and shaping opinion, serving as clearinghouse, promoting involvement

HPKCC is a membership-, volunteer-based organization that acts as a primary or collaborative convener of public forums and workshops, submits position papers, and creates or works with action committees on issues of community and economic planning and development, zoning, preservation and enhancement of historic and neighborhood-character resources, transit and mobility/access, parks and open space, environment, schools, public safety, and social and political needs. We engage with elected officials, institutions and other stakeholders to make sure that the community at large and its diversity of opinion and interests are heard. We also jointly sponsor community events, public meetings, and problem-solving visioning exercises. We support and promote an economically and racially diverse, open and balanced community and open decision-making processes.

In Closer Focus: So what, specifically does the Used Book Fair, for example, enable or fund?

By Jane Ciacci, updated

2009 and 2010 financial reports show that the Used Book Sale makes a net profit in the range of $10,000 annually, depending on the weather, the economy, and changing markets.

The profits of the sale are currently the Conference's major source of support for its ongoing expenses, such as the office in the Hyde Park Bank building, and space rental and other expenses for community events throughout the year. For example, our Schools Committee holds numerous networking and awards ceremonies, dinners, and forums. Our Condos and Co-ops Committee hosts annual forums on association law and issues with Attorney John Bickley, who has worked with the committee for several years to provide these popular forums on topical questions.

In 2009, we hosted the HPKCC Forum "Challenging the Next Decade," to kick off our 60th anniversary year, and added two organizations as committees of the Conference—Friends of Blackstone Library and South Side Preservation Action Fund, funded with a grant obtained by the Fund, which commissioned a structural engineering assessment of the Harper Theater Buildings that played a role in reuse of the building,

Our Development, Preservation & Zoning Committee is particularly active, and collaborates with a number of other community groups, including the 53rd Street TIF Advisory Council and its committees; the Coalition for Equitable Community Development; Hyde Park Disabilities Task Force; Hyde Park Historical Society; and its Preservation Committee; Interfaith Open Communities; Older Women's League of Hyde Park and Illinois; and Southside Solidarity Network.

The profits of the 2008 and 2009 book sales made possible major donations to the Hyde Park Neighborhood Club to help fund transportation for the Summer Teen program in summer 2009 and 2010.
